[19] In the past 20 years or so, many Catholic leaders have publicly criticized the practice of the "Sistema" order. For example, in 1999 a group of Latin American bishops and cardinals gathered at Saint-Paul de Montfort to protest against the ordination of a man named Funes who allegedly practiced an un-Catholic form of the "Sistema" order. Also, in 2001, in an effort to help foster the development of a common view within the Fraternity of the Sacred Heart and the Pontifical Council for Propaganda, Culture, and Communication, Pope Paul VI, as well as Pope John Paul II, had a meeting at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome to establish a task force on Sistema, called Pareto, a term used in economics to refer to "an economically inefficient business of the highest form."From Wowpedia.
